Re: 21st Annual “History Across the Disciplines” Conference, March 1-3, 2019
“Investigating Movement: People and Ideas in Motion”

The Dalhousie Graduate History Society is pleased to announce that it is now accepting submissions for the 2019 History Across the Disciplines Conference, which will be held the weekend of March 1, 2019 at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia. This is a great opportunity for graduate students to share the results of their research in a friendly setting and learn valuable conference presentation skills.

We invite faculty, graduate, and senior undergraduate student papers broadly related to the theme of movement, whether of people or ideas, in any time frame or geographical area. We strongly encourage the submission of papers from related disciplines such as Political Science, International Development Studies, Social Anthropology and Sociology, among others. Possible themes include but are not limited to:

- Intellectual, literary, religious, cultural, and social movements
- Migration, war, displacement, and refugee policy
- Environmental migration, climate change, and epidemics
- Globalization, commodities, colonialism and the state

Given the broad scope of possible approaches to the theme of movement, all proposals will be given consideration. Presented papers should be roughly 20 minutes or 8 to 10 pages in length.

Applicants should submit an abstract of no more than 300 words, a short bio, and a CV to the attention of the Dalhousie Graduate History Society at historyacrossthedisciplines@gmail.com.

The deadline for submission is January 4, 2019 at 4pm.

The best paper presented at this conference, as determined by a panel of graduate students and faculty members, will be awarded the John Flint Prize ($250). To be considered for the prize, the submitted essay should be 20-25 pages in length, and should be sent to the committee by January 28, 2018; however, the presentation paper should be amended to suit a 20 minute presentation.

Kindly direct any comments, queries, and applications to the conference committee at historyacrossthedisciplines@gmail.com

Thank you for your interest in our conference!

Re: Multiple Forms of Engagement with the 21st Annual “History Across the Disciplines”
Conference, March 1-3, 2019
“Investigating Movement: People and Ideas in Motion”

In keeping with the interdisciplinary nature of the conference, the Dalhousie Graduate History Society is pleased to announce that artistic responses to the theme of movement will now be accepted in addition to papers. The conference, which is held the weekend of March 1, 2019 at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia, provides a unique opportunity to unconventionally engage with the conference theme within an academic setting.

We invite faculty, graduate, and senior undergraduate student work broadly related to the theme of movement in multiple media. Possible themes include but are not limited to:

- Intellectual, literary, religious, cultural, and social movements
- Migration, war, displacement, and refugee policy
- Environmental migration, climate change, and epidemics
- Globalization, commodities, colonialism and the state

Given the broad scope of possible approaches to the theme of movement, all submissions will be given consideration. Submissions should be original work that is ready to display, but may also include short performances. Individuals can submit a maximum of three pieces and physical work can be no larger than 95 cm in length or width.

Applicants should submit: current contact information; an artist bio and statement of 150-250 words, which must include the title, medium and size of the work; and a 300-dpi jpeg of the completed submission or a video of the proposed performance.

Submissions must be sent to the attention of the Dalhousie Graduate History Society at historyacrossthedisciplines@gmail.com. The deadline for artistic submissions is January 18, 2019 at 4pm. Successful applicants will be contacted within two weeks of the deadline and provided with pertinent conference information. The Graduate History Society does not take responsibility for the damage or loss of any materials on display.

Kindly direct any comments, queries, and applications to the conference committee at historyacrossthedisciplines@gmail.com.

Thank you for your interest in our conference!
