Jan. 11
“Europe Looks East: Wolff & Leibniz on China”
Simon Kow, King’s College University

Jan. 18
"Paul Best, Prisoner in the Gatehouse’: Socinianism and the toleration of radical heresy during the English Civil War”
Stephen Snobelen, King’s College University

Jan. 25
“Accra as a ‘fetish capital’”
Jonathan Roberts, Mount Saint Vincent University

Feb. 1
Munroe Day – no session

Feb. 8
"Nova Scotia and the Atlantic Grain Economy, 1749-1793"
Patrick Callaway, University of Maine

Feb. 15
"The Darker Side of Imperial Belonging: The League of Coloured Peoples’ Social Activism in 1930s Britain”
Melissa Shaw, Queen’s University

Feb. 22
Spring reading break – no session

March 1
“Slave, Servant, Freed Labour: The Imperial Grammar of Social Conservatism”
Robbie Shilliam, Johns Hopkins University

March 8
“Law, Status, and the Lash: Judicial Whipping in Early Modern England”
Krista Kesselring, Dalhousie University

March 15
“‘There’s Dicke Robinson’: Reconstructing the Life and Repertoire of an Early Modern English Boy Actress”
Roberta Barker, Dalhousie University

March 22
More Than Nothing – A history of the vacuum in the theoretical physics, 1925-1980
Aaron Wright, Dalhousie University

March 29
“The Life and Times of the Nova Scotia Cricket League, 1906-1914”
John Reid, Saint Mary’s University

April 5
"Embodiment and Disembodiment: Corporeal Sovereignty in Early Modern Iran”
Colin Mitchell, Dalhousie University

April 12 – PLEASE NOTE THE LOCATION – 1459 LeMarchant Street, Mona Campbell Building, room 2107
“Thinking the Empire Whole: The Global British Empire ca. 1650-1784”
Steven Pincus, University of Chicago

Pre-circulated papers available in the History Office, 1158 McCain, by the Wednesday before. Digital copies may be requested from Valerie Peck at Valerie.peck@dal.ca. For information or for offers to present a paper or suggestions for presenters, contact Colin Mitchell at c.mitchell@dal.ca