David Griffiths is an independent applied researcher who writes, lectures, facilitates and consults on international confidence, cooperation and mutual understanding.

During 31 years of service as a Canadian naval officer, David spent 15 years at sea in ships and submarines, with the remainder in staff appointments that included personnel policy, project management, operational planning, and doctrine development, for which he received a Maritime Commander's Commendation in 1996. In 1992/93 he was seconded to the European Community Monitoring Mission during the wars in Yugoslavia, becoming head of the Coordination Centre responsible for operations in Eastern Herzegovina, Montenegro and the southern Dalmatian coast of Croatia. Between 1993 and 1996 his duties included serving as a naval advisor to the Middle East Peace Process. Since leaving the Service in 1996 he has been engaged in a wide variety of international relations projects; primarily in the Middle East, and Central, South and East Asia.

David is a Research Fellow at the Centre for Foreign Policy Studies, a Senior Research Fellow with the International Ocean Institute (Canada), an Honorary Fellow of the National Centre of Maritime Policy Research at Bahria University in Karachi, Pakistan, and serves on the Board of Governors of the Atlantic School of Theology in Halifax. He is a graduate of the Canadian Forces Command and Staff College and holds a Masters degree in Marine Management from Dalhousie University.
