Self-Identification Questionnaire (Optional)

Dalhousie University is committed to encouraging diversity and to providing services that meet the needs of the University's diverse student population. Completion of the section on self-identification is voluntary.

Self-Identify with Consent: There may be scholarships and affirmative action policies in some programs that may be available to those who self-identify with consent in this section. Dalhousie has numerous support services available to students who are Aboriginal, Black/of African descent or who have disabilities, including financial aid. If you select to self-identify with consent the University may forward additional information on these support services.

Self-Identify without Consent: There is also the option to self-identify without consent. This means any data produced from the information will not be linked to you without your prior written authorization. This information will be used by the University to assist in assessing and improving services for students who are Aboriginal, Black/persons of African descent or persons with a disability.

For the purposes of the following, 'Aboriginal peoples' include individuals who are status, non-status, Métis or Inuit.
