During Covid many members of FM at the Agricultural Campus supported two Public Health COVID immunization clinics. They showed flexibility in scheduling, setting up for the clinic as well as tearing down and cleaning up. They greeted and screened anyone who arrived to the clinic using Public Health protocols. These individuals took their time to ensure students, staff, faculty and members of the community were able to receive a COVID vaccine. Much of this was volunteer work, outside of their regular duties. Their participation showed leadership and a willingness to step forward by to help keep the community safe and healthy.
