A routine pump installation in Gerard Hall turned into a logistical nightmare when many feet of rotting pipe was discovered during installation. This team not only had to install the new pump during the time the water was shut off, but also locate material to replace the old pipe. This work was impressive not only because of the skill and knowledge needed to repair the problem but also to do it so quickly. Here's a direct quote from the kudo – “Please remind the guys what a great job they are doing for Dal. Much appreciated.”
