

The grind never stops for Matt Flewwelling

“Matt Flewwelling stepped up to manage a larger workload than normal during a period in which we lost three project managers. He took the initiative to begin working on most of Carol’s projects before we even had enough time to finalize any formal arrangements. As evidence, he has already closed 49 projects and is on track to close at least 48 more before January. This means he has processed about 40% more work over the same period as last year (and had a new baby).”

Ian Wagschal
Assistant Director of Projects

Matt Flewwelling can smile knowing he gets the most out of each and every day

