

Stuart-ship Used to Get Ahead

“Thanks as well to Stuart, for allowing the two teams to work closely together in order to make this happen.” – Kenneth Reid

While renovating the Dalhousie Dentistry Building, two contractors were hired on to aid in construction, Johnson Controls and ONSA – O’Neil Scriven and Associates Limited. Stuart McCormack was the project manager for the Dentistry renovations and with his excellent communication and stewardship, the two teams were able to work closely together in order to create the gorgeous and highly functional space.

Along with the ease of working together, Stuart allowed timely access to information that granted Johnson Controls the ability to get ahead on shop drawings for the project.
