

Sobering Security

Friday nights are meant to be full of good times and great memories. For one first-year student, Mr. Smith, his Saturday morning was full of regret which overpowered the enjoyment of the night previous. While Security Officer Angela Volente was walking a student to her car on Saturday night at 7:44 PM, Mr. Smith approached Angela to thank her for the outstanding care and support he received during his drunk adventure the night previous.

Upon seeing Mr. Smith he mentioned, “he was feeling good and that he was still never going to drink again.”
