FM'S CAMPUS PLANNING

The flames were barely extinguished after the Cox fire, but campus planning was already scrambling to figure out temporary locations for the space affected both short and long term. In very short order they located external space for storage, and secured a complicated lease with the old Truro Sears location. Our CAD team had to start from scratch with the space, as they didn't have the proper drawings to lay out furniture, so they measured, and double measured and measured again. Modular, dismountable office furniture was chosen to allow for flexibility, while others on the team were locating and arranging for second-hand furniture and supplies for the spaces. Signage was particularly important as so many areas and spaces had been relocated. This work was all being done under very tight time schedules to be ready for September, while working with very concerned and stressed staff, faculty and researchers.
