

Breaking Down Barriers

Dr. Judy MacDonald wishes to acknowledge Siobhan Evans, Accessibility Planning Specialist, for her spectacular leadership skills.

“I have only recently come to know Siobhan Evans in her role as working group lead for the Built Environment...part of the Dalhousie University Accessibility Advisory Committee. I have been thoroughly impressed by Siobhan's leadership, including her organizational skills, and her ability to truly listen and respond to others. Her understanding of accessibility is broad and complex, which then translates into an organic application to (dis)Ability. She is respectful of first voice believing those living with (dis)Abilities have an insider lens to ableism and hence the barriers created by social institutions and organization. I can honestly say that it is a pleasure being a member of her team. I look forward to what the team envisions for a more accessible Dalhousie under Siobhan's leadership within the built environment.”

Dr. Judy MacDonald, Director, School of Social Work
March 2021

