

Grounds Team Meets Goals

Gardeners Derek Pearson and Tara Oostvogels give a tour during Sustainability Week

“We wanted to thank this team for their work in improving the campus landscapes and contributing to the University goals of biodiversity and natural spaces. These are important goals measured in University and global rankings. The noticeable increase and diversity of beautiful and biodiverse gardens are being remarked on. Today on my way in to work a member of the public remarked on the beautiful gardens in front of the Chemistry building. We understand the importance of this work and the need for further investment. We appreciated this team being flexible to try our new pilot projects and work with us on events and installations.”
