

2017 STOKER AWARD FOR SAFETY

FM RESCUE TEAM

This team of volunteers has continued to upgrade their skills and were recognized by the University by winning the Environmental Health and Safety Award. In October they also took part alongside Security in a mock exercise. Together with St John ambulance, they simulated an explosion in the tunnel. Rescue team member Paul Christian took on the role of an injured person, and the makeup job was very realistic. The rest of the team put their skills to the test and had to go into the tunnel, rescue him and bring him outside for very authentic treatment. The simulation really gave the team the chance to experience a situation that could possibly happen, and to understand how difficult it may be if they have to rescue one of their colleagues.

Team members: Paul Christian, Adam DeBaie, Scott Henderson, Timothy Hubley, Mike LeBlanc, Chad MacLellan, Joshua Romans, David Studley, Paul Yuille
