

LAWRENCE D. STOKES SEMINAR
DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY HISTORY DEPARTMENT
Most Fridays, 3:30-5:00 p.m., Room 1170 McCain Building
6135 University Ave.

Fall 2017

September 15

'Gold versus Life:' Enslaved Jobbing Gangs, Capitalism, and Amelioration in the British Caribbean

Nicholas Radburn, Lancaster University and Justin Roberts, Dalhousie University

September 22

'Profits, Savings, Peace, Order': Prostitution, Urban Planning and Imperial Identity in Halifax, Nova Scotia, 1898-1912

Katherine Crooks, Dalhousie University

September 29

From Slave Code to Slave Constitution: African Enslaveability, White Supremacy, and the Seventeenth-Century Barbados Slave Laws

Stefanie Kennedy, University of New Brunswick

October 6

The Rules and Uses of Patronage at Confederation: The Memoirs of P.S. Hamilton

Stephen Henderson, Acadia University

October 13

Empire of Slavery: Bound Labor and the Making of the British Atlantic, 1689-1775

Jared Hardesty, Western Washington University

October 20

Contemporary Africans in Timeless Africa: West Africans' Engagement with Ideas of Africa in America, 1925-1945

Philip Zachernuk, Dalhousie University

November 17

Death Control: New Research on Routine Infanticide in the West from the 16th to the 18th centuries

Gregory Hanlon, Dalhousie University

November 24

Are Canadian Historians Wrong About the Welfare State?

William Langford, Dalhousie University

Pre-circulated papers available in the History Office, 1158 McCain, by the Wednesday before. Digital copies may be requested from Valerie Peck at Valerie.peck@dal.ca.

For information or for offers to present a paper or suggestions for presenters, contact Justin Roberts at Roberts.justin@gmail.com