AWARD CRITERIA

Alum of the Year

This award recognizes the unique and major contributions made by a retired or still active physician to clinical practice, teaching, and scholarly activity, such as research and/or quality and safety at a national level, and/or advocacy.

Exceptional Service Award (previously known as the Honorary President)

This award recognizes senior alumni, or past or present members of the Faculty of Medicine, whose careers and exceptional service in the practice of medicine have been outstanding. Award nominees may include non-local, non-faculty nominees.

Family Physician of the Year

This award is to honour a family physician who exemplifies excellence in medical care and is a role model in the practice of family medicine, an outstanding teacher of undergraduate medical students and residents, and an advocate for the health of their community. Alumni who practice in the Maritime Provinces are the focus of this award; however, non-local nominees will be considered.

Young Alum of the Year

This award recognizes a Dalhousie Medical School graduate in the first ten years of their career who has made a significant contribution to Dalhousie Medical School, other medical schools, or their community. This contribution can be in clinical practice, teaching, research, or public service.

Engagement Award

This award recognizes an individual who fosters meaningful relationships amongst the medical alumni community, the faculty and its learners, actively participating in DMAA and Faculty of Medicine initiatives to support, celebrate and connect to each other. Nominees may include a class president.

Resident Leadership Award – Family Medicine (including Enhanced Skills Programs)

This award recognizes a Dalhousie Medical School resident in a Family Medicine or Family Medicine Enhanced Skills program who has demonstrated outstanding leadership. Areas of leadership could include but are not limited to advocacy, research, community engagement, mentorship of students and/or other residents, or administration. Nominees must be in a residency program at time of nomination to be eligible.

Resident Leadership Award – Royal College Specialties and Subspecialties

This award recognizes a Dalhousie Medical School resident in a Royal College Specialty or Subspecialty program who has demonstrated outstanding leadership in their field. Areas of leadership could include but are not limited to advocacy, research, community engagement, mentorship of students and/or other residents, or administration. Nominees must be in a residency program at time of nomination to be eligible.

The Faculty of Medicine strives to reflect the diversity in our own community and is committed to the principles of meritocracy and equity, taking action to support the access and success of under-represented groups such as: women; Indigenous Peoples, with emphasis on Mi'kmaq peoples; Persons with Disabilities; racialized persons (visible minorities), with an emphasis on African Nova Scotians and African Canadians; and persons who traditionally have not had the opportunity for university education because of economic, social and cultural reasons, lack of formal education or residence in non-urban areas.
