

Dr. F. Ian Maclean Memorial Prize Call for Applications

We are excited to announce a new prize has been established to honor Dr. F. Ian Maclean. The Dalhousie Society for the History of Medicine and the family are honoured that this prize commemorates his memory. Dr. Maclean began his career in science as an undergraduate in the University of Toronto in 1947, eventually retiring in 1995 as an Associate Professor in the Department of Biochemistry at Dalhousie University. He was a popular and conscientious teacher, devoting considerable energy to the introductory courses in biochemistry that he taught in the School of Nursing.

The prize recognizes the accomplishments of a Dalhousie Medical or Nursing student (undergraduate, graduate or resident) who demonstrates excellence in a scholarly project related to the history of medicine.

Submissions through but not limited to videos, presentations, papers, etc. should be sent to: medhuman@dal.ca.

Deadline for Submission: January 31, 2023
