

Cynthia Davis Prize for Writing

Medical students and resident doctors of Dalhousie University are invited to submit their work to the 2022 Cynthia Davis Prize for Writing.

Accepted pieces will include short stories, creative non-fiction, essays or poetry.
The upper word limit is 2500 words.

Submissions must be previously unpublished, not submitted elsewhere for publication and on the theme of Wellness in humanities or humanism in medicine.

First prize is $1000 and runners up will receive $200.
The winner of the competition will also receive assistance from Dr. Sarah Fraser in preparing and submitting their piece for publication.

The winner and runners up will be announced and have the opportunity to read from their submission at the Quill and Stethoscope brunch TBA.

Submissions should be sent to: medhuman@dal.ca

Deadline for Submission: Midnight, July 31, 2022
