"Feedback, Excellence and the Learning Environment: Exploring Successful Practice"

Presented By:
Ben Tait, PhD
Executive Director, Centre for Learning and Teaching

Feedback can mean many things within the context of a Residency, alongside any number of related terms: instruction, guidance, coaching, etc. Reaching common understanding of what constitutes good feedback, or proving what constitutes impactful feedback, is therefore a challenge. In this panel discussion we shall explore what Residents need to support their development, clarify what colleagues can realistically provide, and consider next steps for enhancing our collective approach to creating an excellent learning environment
