Winter Student Awards in Earth Sciences

Students in 3rd year Earth Sciences encouraged to apply:

David Barlow Memorial Award – awarded to a student in the Earth Sciences program with a good academic record, and has shown qualities of leadership in the department, student society, or community affairs. As David Barlow was an officer in the Armed Services, preference may be given to a student in the Armed Forces. Approximate value = $1300

How to apply: Send applications to Miao Zhang (miao.zhang@dal.ca) by March 10th, 2020. Applications must include the following:

- a resume,
- short covering letter which includes 1) a short biography, 2) your achievements, and 3) how you meet the award criteria (see underlined points),
- an unofficial transcript.

Students in Earth Sciences encouraged to apply:

GAC-PDAC Logan Student Prize – candidates should be academically sound, have good leadership skills (e.g. organizing field trips, geology club, geo-events, etc.), and have done well at field school or otherwise show proficiency in field techniques. A student in his/her final (i.e. graduation) year is preferred. The prize will consist of a monetary award, one-year memberships in both GAC® and PDAC, and an electronic certificate. More information can be found at https://www.pdac.ca/members/students/awards/undergraduate-awards/logan-student-prize

How to apply: Students nominate their colleagues. Send nominations to Miao Zhang (miao.zhang@dal.ca) by Feb. 8th, 2020. Nominations should highlight how the nominees meet the award criteria (see underlined points).
