Course Description

This course focuses on intertemporal economics and the economics of market failure as they pertain to the use of natural resources. A selection of resource sectors will also be discussed. Fisheries, agriculture, forestry, and energy represent possibilities, but this will vary from year to year.

This course is designed for senior economics majors and economics honours students. As a consequence, it is designed for students with a good background in micro-economic theory (Econ 2200) and calculus.

FORMAT: Lecture, 3 hours per week

Course Prerequisites (with a grade of C or better)

ECON 2200.03 or ECON 2210.03 or ECON 2220.03,
MATH 1000.03 or equivalent

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

Students should have a basic understanding of key issues in resource economics.

Course Materials

Required readings may be assigned during the course.

Econ 3332 Essay

Winter 2019

This essay gives you the opportunity to explore a resource in greater depth than can be done in class. In particular, you can (briefly) explore the physical setting of the resource (i.e., its biology, ecology, geology etc), its cultural importance or importance the local or global economy as well as policy issues and conflicts over the resource.

As an alternative, you could explore the economic literature's analysis of a resource which we are not examining in class (e.g., water, petroleum). However, you should be capable of accessing the major literature in the area. Please see me before considering this option.

Examples of possible topics:

- The Nova Scotia Snow-Crab Fishery,
- North West Territories Diamond Mines
- The Nova Scotia Scallop Fishery
- The Effects of the Mountain Pine Bark Beetle on Canada's Forests
- Wind Energy in Denmark
- Tropical Forest Plantations
- Bamboo
- Pacific Tuna
- The Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Industry

The paper (including references) should be about ten pages in length

Deadlines(in class):

Topic : Feb 5 Hand in a written page mentioning the resource being covered, any geographic or time limits on your analysis, and policy issues you would like to explore (e.g., recent conflicts over use, depletion). Include ideas of literature/information sources. Your topic must be approved for future work to count!

Paper(10pts): March 19 This should be your best effort at a finished, polished paper.

Revised Paper(10pts): April 2 This includes any revisions in light of comments made on the draft.

Technical details:

The finished essay should be about 10 pages (8 to 12 including everything). It should include a title page (with title, date, your name and student number) and a bibliography or "references" section (with a consistent method of citing sources).

Generally avoid footnotes.

Please use the following standard page formats (Line spacing: double or 1.5; font: 11 or 12 pt; margins: approximately 2.5 cm (1 inch)). I will not be exact but will take off marks if a paper is obviously difficult to read or trying to extend or reduce length by adjusting format.

The essay (and any revisions) may be required to be submitted to plagiarism detection software.

University Policies and Statements

This course is governed by the academic rules and regulations set forth in the University Calendar and by Senate

Academic Integrity

At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect (The Center for Academic Integrity, Duke University, 1999). As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity.

Accessibility

The Advising and Access Services Centre is Dalhousie's centre of expertise for student accessibility and accommodation. The advising team works with students who request accommodation as a result of a disability, religious obligation, or any barrier related to any other characteristic protected under Human Rights legislation (Canada and Nova Scotia).

Information: https://www.dal.ca/campus_life/academic-support/accessibility.html

Student Code of Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don't follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution can't be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution.

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness

Statement: <http://www.dal.ca/cultureofrespect.html>

Recognition of Mi'kmaq Territory

Dalhousie University would like to acknowledge that the University is on Traditional Mi'kmaq Territory. The Elders in Residence program provides students with access to First Nations elders for guidance, counsel and support. Visit the office (Rm 3037, McCain Building), e-mail (elders@dal.ca) or leave message (902-494-6803).
