Dalhousie University acknowledges that we are in Mi'kma'ki, the ancestral and unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq People and pays respect to the Indigenous knowledges held by the Mi'kmaq People, and to the wisdom of their Elders past and present. The Mi'kmaq People signed Peace and Friendship Treaties with the Crown, and section 35 of the Constitution Act, 1982 recognizes and affirms Aboriginal and Treaty rights. We are all Treaty people.

Dalhousie University also acknowledges the histories, contributions, and legacies of African Nova Scotians, who have been here for over 400 years.

Course Description

The focus of this course will be the construction and analysis of mathematical models. Focus will be given to the use of computer simulations. Programming in Python will be covered. Google offers a service called Colab which allows you to execute Python code in a browser. Coding in python: Learning to code in Python and how to use it for simple math models is an essential part of this course. We will be using Google colab environment. No prior knowledge of python is assumed. Learning will be mostly done through examples.

Midterm: in-class, on Feb 26 (Wed).

Assessment: Homework (25%), midterm (25%) and final (50%). The worst homework grade will be dropped.

Submitting homework: The homework will require a combination of coding and written answers. For any coding questions, please print out both code as well as output (simply print the google colab workbook).

Cheating: JUST DON'T!! You are allowed to collaborate on homework questions, but you must write your own solutions in the end. You are NOT allowed to "collaborate" on tests

(of course). If you are caught, there are grave consequences up to and including expulsion for serious cases. Any cheating will be automatically referred to the academic integrity board.

Conversion of numerical grades to final letter grades follows the Dalhousie Grade Scale

Conduct in the Classroom – Culture of Respect

Substantial and constructive dialogue on challenging issues is an important part of academic inquiry and exchange. It requires willingness to listen and tolerance of opposing points of view. Consideration of individual differences and alternative viewpoints is required of all class members, towards each other, towards instructors, and towards guest speakers. While expressions of differing perspectives are welcome and encouraged, the words and language used should remain within acceptable bounds of civility and respect.

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness (Strategic Priority 5.2). Additional diversity and inclusion information can be found at: <http://www.dal.ca/cultureofrespect.html>

Student Code of Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don't follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner - perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution can't be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution. The full Code of Student Conduct can be found at: https://www.dal.ca/dept/university_secretariat/policies/student-life/code-of-student-conduct.html
