

ANNOUNCING

THE HENRY AND MARY BIBB SERIES OF BLACK CANADIAN STUDIES

In 1851, Henry and Mary Bibb founded Canada's first Black newspaper, The Voice of the Fugitive. In honour of the Bibbs' invaluable contributions to print culture, education and social justice, this first-ever Black Canadian Studies Book Series seeks established and emerging scholars who wish also to leave an indelible mark. Multi-disciplinary in scope, the series will be published and widely promoted by University of Regina Press.

Series Editor AFUA COOPER is the James R. Johnston Chair in Black Canadian Studies at Dalhousie University.

For more information about publishing in the series, please contact:

KAREN MAY CLARK, Acquisitions Editor
University of Regina Press
3737 Wascana Parkway
Regina, Saskatchewan S4S 0A2 Canada
e: karen.clark@uregina.ca t: 306-585-4664

University of Regina Press

uofrpress.ca