

KINE 4714 – Exercise Oncology

This course will provide students with an introduction to cancer and various treatment options while highlighting the role of exercise as a therapeutic intervention for those living with and beyond cancer. Through lectures, discussions, and case studies, students will gain an understanding of the multidisciplinary approach to cancer care and how the integration of exercise can enhance health outcomes and support the overall well-being in those affected by cancer.