SCHULICH SCHOOL OF LAW

APPLICATION FORM BOYNECLARKE PRIZE

The BOYNECLARKE Prize was established in 1994 by the law firm of BOYNECLARKE.

This annual prize of $1,000.00 is awarded to the first year student from Nova Scotia who has demonstrated excellence through a combination of academic achievement, participation and contribution to the law school and the broader community.

The Associate Dean's office will award the prize. However, because the office only has access to information regarding a student's academic standing, and not their participation in the broader community, this application form has been designed to elicit that information. Thus the winner of the prize will be a student who has a) demonstrated excellence through a combination of academic achievement, participation and contribution to the law school; and b) participation to the broader community. The office reserves the right to not award the prize in any given year if no applications are received, or if none of the applicants have a sufficiently high academic standing. Please note that this award cannot be awarded until final grades are available.

Please list below the any committees or organizations in which you have participated either inside or outside the law school.

Nominations must be received in the Associate Dean's office by March 31st.
