Calendar Description of POLI 4207 and 5207

POLI 4207 Canadian Politics: Themes and Theories/POLI 5207 Advanced Seminar in Canadian Politics CREDIT HOURS: 3 This senior seminar will take an in-depth and critical look at the major issues and institutions in Canadian politics and government. Topics include: the concentration of power; parliamentary governance: constitutional politics; party and electoral systems; and, the role of the mass media and pressure groups. PREREQUISITES: Permission of the instructor. CROSSLISTED: POLI 4207.03 or POLI 5207.03 EXCLUSIONS: POLI 4204.03 FORMATS: Seminar

Extended Description Course Topics

This course covers a wide range of fundamental topics in the study of Canadian politics and government including the nature of Canadian political institutions, political culture(s), identities and interests. Topics include 'responsible government,' Parliament (including the House of Commons and the Senate), the nature of the Canadian party system and elections, federalism, the role of the courts in Canadian governance, interest groups and social movements, municipal governance, and the multifaceted relationship of Indigenous governments and peoples to the Canadian state. We also explore Canadian political culture/identities including the influence of regionalism, Quebecois and Indigenous nationalisms, multicultural identities, race, and gender on Canadian political development.

Format: This class is offered in seminar format. A list of questions will be provided when the seminar begins to structure an instructor-led class discussion.

Learning Objectives

The course's primary learning objectives are the following:

Students will ...

Develop an in-depth understanding of Canada's political institutions.

Become familiar with some of the fundamental debates in the Canadian political science literature.

Hone reading comprehension skills by being asked to read, digest and analyze a significant amount of reading quickly and accurately.

Strengthen oral and written communication skills by writing weekly short analytical pieces on the readings and through participation in small group (instructor-led) discussions about the material.

Improve analytical skills and one's ability to develop a sound argument by filtering the readings through a weekly question.

Learn how to edit one's work in response to constructive class and instructor feedback.

Method of Assessment

Discussion papers	40%
Research paper	40%
Commentary on colleague's paper	10%
Participation	10%

Grading Scale and Definitions (see also section on Dalhousie University's Grading Practices Policy under "University Policies" in Section C of this syllabus)

Here is a link to Dalhousie University's Grading Scale:

https://www.dal.ca/campus\_life/academic-support/grades-and-student-records/grade-scale-and-definitions.html

Graduate students should also consult the Department of Political Science's grading rubric which also elaborates upon the meaning of grades in a graduate context. It is available on the Department's website under the "resources" section of the information on graduate programs.

Description of Assignments

*Please note differences between graduate and undergraduate requirements

Discussion Papers

These papers should respond to the question that is provided in the syllabus. They should draw upon ALL of the assigned readings for the week (and cite them). A bibliography isn't necessary unless the paper goes beyond the assigned readings (which isn't expected). The idea is to develop a dialogue among the authors in response to the assigned question asking, for instance, 'how would each author answer the question?' as well as 'on which points do the authors of the readings differ in their perspective and on which points do they share common ground?'

Discussion papers should be 500-600 words in length and formatted on a single page. They should conclude by raising a question for class discussion that flows from the paper.

These short papers replace testing and exam requirements for the course. They are designed as a way to assess students' knowledge of the material without testing as well as to assess analytical and communication skills more than memorization. The discussion paper with the lowest grade will be dropped in the final grade calculation. However, the requisite number of discussion papers must be written to receive credit for the course (see numbers below).

Discussion papers should be submitted on Brightspace by the Monday morning at 8 a.m. at the latest on the week of the seminar. Discussion papers will be posted on Brightspace by 11 a.m. on Monday morning at the latest. Seminar participants should read their colleagues' discussion papers before the seminar on Wednesday

*POLI 4207 – 7 discussion papers

*POLI 5207 – 9 discussion papers

Research Paper

The paper will be graded on the quality of its research, its argument (whether its thesis statement is clear and well-supported in the paper), its organization and the quality of the writing.

The papers will be circulated to colleagues (posted on Brightspace) and will be discussed in class on November 18th and November 25th, 2022. The paper discussion will be led by a student who is tasked with providing a written commentary on the paper. Students will have an opportunity to revise and resubmit their papers after this discussion. First drafts of papers are due on November 22nd, 2023. The final deadline for the research paper is December 11th, 2023 (the Monday after the last official day of classes). Please submit the paper to the course Brightspace page (both the draft and final iteration).

*POLI 4207 - Research papers should be 4000-5000 words in length and should reference at least 10 high quality academic sources.

*POLI 5207 - Research papers should be 6000-7000 words in length and should reference at least 15 high quality academic sources.

Commentary

Students will submit a written commentary on another student's research paper. The commentary should be 1000-1200 words in length. It should provide a critical assessment of the paper's strengths and weaknesses focusing primarily on its analytical, organizational and research aspects (rather than issues of writing style or grammar). The commentary will be presented informally (only the written commentary will be graded) in class to begin the discussion of the student's paper. It should be submitted to the instructor by 8.am. on the Tuesday before it is presented. Only the instructor will have read the commentary before its presentation in class.

Participation

Active participation in seminar discussions is expected of all members of the group and attendance is mandatory.

The participation grade will be assigned on the basis of the quality of students' interventions in class discussions. Essentially, it will assess students' knowledge and analysis of readings as well as their ability to express their ideas clearly and effectively through oral communication.

As part of their discussion grade, students are also expected to demonstrate knowledge and engagement of the material in other students' discussion papers and to provide feedback on their peers' research papers.

Policy on lateness

Late discussion papers and paper commentaries will not be accepted and will receive grades of "0" with the exception of documented family and medical emergencies. The best six of seven (undergraduate) or eight of nine (graduate) discussion papers will count toward the grade. I am willing to mark more discussion papers than required for the course should students want to improve their grades by writing a higher number of discussion papers.

Late penalties for research papers are 2% per business day (after the final deadline of December 11th, 2023).

Other Class Policies to Note (See also Sections B and C of this syllabus below)

Research papers for the class must be submitted on Brightspace and will be verified for plagiarism using Dalhousie's approved detection software. Please familiarize yourself with Dalhousie University's policies concerning academic integrity in Section B of the syllabus (under university statements).

*****Important Note: Generative writing tools like Chat GPT, Google Translate and QuillBot (etc.) are not permitted in FASS classes, unless explicitly allowed by the course instructor. Their use is NOT permitted in this class. Using AI-powered tools constitutes an academic offense if the instructor has not explicitly sanctioned its usage.

The seminars are not recorded and should not be recorded by students.

Topic Schedule – Fall 2023

Introduction to the course: September 6th (The role of the political scientist in Canada)

Topic 1: Canadian Political Origins and Identity (September 13)

Topic 2: Parliament (September 20)

Topic 3: Political Parties, Party Systems and Elections (September 27)

Topic 4: Political Communication and Digital Politics in Canada (October 4)

SECTION B: UNIVERSITY STATEMENTS

Territorial Acknowledgement:

The Dalhousie University Senate acknowledges that we are in Mi'kma'ki, the ancestral and unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq People and pays respect to the Indigenous knowledges held by the Mi'kmaq People, and to the wisdom of their Elders past and present. The Mi'kmaq People signed Peace and Friendship Treaties with the Crown, and section 35 of the Constitution Act, 1982 recognizes and affirms Aboriginal and Treaty rights. We are all Treaty people.<sup>1</sup> The Dalhousie University Senate also acknowledges the histories, contributions, and legacies of African Nova Scotians, who have been here for over 400 years.

Internationalization

At Dalhousie, "thinking and acting globally" enhances the quality and impact of education, supporting learning that is "interdisciplinary, cross-cultural, global in reach, and orientated toward solving problems that extend across national borders."

Academic Integrity

At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect. As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity.

Accessibility

The Student Accessibility Centre is Dalhousie's centre of expertise for matters related to student accessibility and accommodation.

If there are aspects of the design, instruction, and/or experiences within this course (online or in-person) that result in barriers to your inclusion please contact:

the Student Accessibility Centre (for all courses offered by Dalhousie with the exception of Truro)

the Student Success Centre in Truro for courses offered by the Faculty of Agriculture

<sup>1</sup> The Dalhousie University Senate also acknowledges the histories, contributions, and legacies of African Nova Scotians, who have been here for over 400 years.

For more information about the purpose of territorial acknowledgements, or information about alternative territorial acknowledgements if your class is offered outside of Nova Scotia, please visit <https://native-land.ca/>.

Your classrooms may contain accessible furniture and equipment. It is important that these items remain in place, undisturbed, so that students who require their use will be able to fully participate.

Conduct in the Classroom – Culture of Respect

Substantial and constructive dialogue on challenging issues is an important part of academic inquiry and exchange. It requires willingness to listen and tolerance of opposing points of view. Consideration of individual differences and alternative viewpoints is required of all class members, towards each other, towards instructors, and towards guest speakers. While expressions of differing perspectives are welcome and encouraged, the words and language used should remain within acceptable bounds of civility and respect.

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness (Strategic Priority 5.2).

Code of Student Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don't follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution can't be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution.

Fair Dealing policy

The Dalhousie University Fair Dealing Policy provides guidance for the limited use of copyright protected material without the risk of infringement and without having to seek the permission of copyright owners. It is intended to provide a balance between the rights of creators and the rights of users at Dalhousie.

Originality Checking Software

The course instructor may use Dalhousie's approved originality checking software and Google to check the originality of any work submitted for credit, in accordance with the Student Submission of Assignments and Use of Originality Checking Software Policy. Students are free, without penalty of grade, to choose an alternative method of attesting to the authenticity of their work, and must inform the instructor no later than the last day to add/drop classes of their intent to choose an alternate method.

Student Use of Course Materials

These course materials are designed for use as part of the Course Code at Dalhousie University and are the property of the instructor unless otherwise stated. Third party copyrighted materials (such as books, journal articles, music, videos, etc.) have either been licensed for use in this course or fall under an exception or limitation in Canadian Copyright law. Copying this course material for distribution (e.g. uploading to a commercial third-party website) may lead to a violation of Copyright law.
