Course Description

This course looks at the way states decide which diplomatic strategies to pursue, and why these succeed or fail. Among the themes considered are the evolution of diplomacy as an international institution, national power and bargaining leverage, and the effects of domestic politics, psychology, and culture on international negotiation. Specific historical cases which may be reviewed in any given year include: the Peloponnesian War, the Munich Crisis, the Cuban Missile Crisis, the negotiation of the Canada-US Free Trade Agreement and NAFTA, and the Kyoto Protocol.

POLI 3581.01 will consist of one class per week and will be presented in a lecture-seminar hybrid setting. It is expected that students will have their weekly readings completed prior to the beginning of each class, to enable them to be active members of our safe and productive community of inquiry. Students are allowed to use laptops during class lectures; however, the use of recording devices, messaging platforms, and social media websites is not permitted.

Additional course information, weekly readings, PowerPoint slides, assignment outlines, and announcement will appear on Brightspace. I encourage students to familiarize themselves with the course’s online learning management system before the start of the semester. If students have any questions regarding Brightspace, please contact or visit the IT Help Desk.

Course Outcomes

By the conclusion of the course, students will be able to:

- Clearly define how diplomacy and negotiation evolved over time.
- Explain the concepts and theories associated with contemporary diplomacy.
- Identify diplomatic practices at the local, national, regional, and international levels.
- Articulately express ideas and arguments of the discipline.
- Organize and present evidence in a coherent manner.
- Cite references using The Chicago Manual of Style.
- Apply research, critical thinking, writing, and organizational skills to new tasks.
Textbook/Reading Material

Additional readings will be available on Brightspace.

* Please note that readings are subject to change. If a change is made, details will be posted on Brightspace.

* Paper copies of assignments must be submitted to the professor or to the Political Science office between 9:00am and 4:00pm (Monday to Friday). Neither the professor nor the Department of Political Science can assume responsibility for assignments submitted by e-mail.

Diplomatic Analysis

This assignment will provide students with an opportunity to come into contact with a diplomatic negotiation from the past. In the assignment, students will be asked to analyze the negotiation using the concepts and theories addressed in the course, place the event in its appropriate context, and evaluate the event’s significance. A list of previous diplomatic negotiations will be posted on Brightspace during the second week of the course. The assignment should be 3-pages in length and is due in class on February 11, 2019.

Research Essay Proposal

On February 25, 2019, students will submit a 3-page research essay proposal on a topic of their choosing, which relates to the themes addressed in the course. A list of possible topics will be provided to the students but they are encouraged to select their own topics. The research essay proposal should include the student’s theoretical and methodological approaches to their research topic, a sample of the sources that the student plans to use, and any research problems that the student expects they may encounter during their research. If approved by the instructor, the topic for the research essay proposal will serve as the foundation for the student’s research essay.

Group Presentation

With the assistance of the instructor, students will form groups of five or six (depending on the size of the class) and will be asked to create a presentation that explores an aspect of contemporary diplomacy. A list of possible presentation topics will be provided for the students but students are encouraged to select their own topics. Group presentations will be approximately twenty minutes in length, followed by a ten minute question period. These presentations will occur from Week 10 to Week 13. A presentation schedule will be organized during Week 3.

Attendance and Participation

Class participation will lead to more in-depth discussions and a greater understanding of the course material. Students will be graded on a weekly basis according to their attendance (5%), as well as their class participation and the quality of their contributions (15%).

Research Essay

Students will be asked to write a 10-page research essay and to submit it during the instructor’s office hours on April 8, 2019. The essay is designed to provide students with an opportunity to research and examine a topic that relates to the course. Feedback from the research essay proposal should be evident in the final product. The essay must follow appropriate scholarly conventions and The Chicago Manual of Style citation guide. The essay should also incorporate at least ten academic sources.

Late Penalties and Absences

If a student fails to submit the diplomatic analysis, research essay proposal, or research essay on the appropriate due date, 5% will be immediately deducted from the overall grade of the assignment. For every day that the assignment is late, after that initial day, the student will be penalized an additional 2% per day. In regards to the group presentation, a student will receive a grade of 0% if they fail to attend their own presentation.

As of the 2017/2018 academic year: Dalhousie students are asked to take responsibility for their own short-term absences (3 days or less) by contacting their instructor by phone or e-mail prior to the academic requirement deadline or scheduled time and by submitting a completed Student Declaration of Absence to their instructor in case of missed or late academic requirements. Only 2 separate Student Declaration of Absence forms may be submitted per course during a term.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. A finding of plagiarism may result in a failing grade of an assignment or course or, if very serious, suspension or expulsion from the university. In fact, if plagiarism is discovered after a student has completed his or her studies, and the penalty results in that student no longer meeting the requirements of a degree that has been awarded, the university may rescind that degree.

Some examples of plagiarism:

- Failure to attribute authorship when using sources such as written or oral work, computer codes/programs, artistic or architectural works, scientific projects, performances, web page designs, graphical representations, diagrams, videos, and images.
- Downloading all or part of the work of another from the Internet and submitting as one's own.
- The use of a paper prepared by any person other than the individual claiming to be the author.

Plagiarism is committed when you do not acknowledge using someone else's:

- words or phrases
- ideas or thoughts
- term paper
- recording
- images
- computer code
• experiment results
• lecture content
• falsified data, citations or other text
• OR your own previously submitted work

Plagiarized materials can come from:
• books
• journal articles
• CD's
• encyclopedias
• web pages
• online term papers
• email or listservs
• talks or lecture

Academic Integrity

At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect (The Center for Academic Integrity, Duke University, 1999). As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity.

Accessibility

The Advising and Access Services Centre is Dalhousie's centre of expertise for student accessibility and accommodation. The advising team works with students who request accommodation as a result of: a disability, religious obligation, or any barrier related to any other characteristic protected under Human Rights legislation (NS, NB, PEI, NFLD).

Student Code of Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don’t follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution cannot be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution.

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness (Strategic Priority 5.2).

Recognition of Mi’kmaq Territory

Dalhousie University would like to acknowledge that the University is on Traditional Mi’kmaq Territory. The Elders in Residence program provides students with access to First Nations elders for guidance, counsel and support. Visit the office in the McCain Building (room 3037) or contact the programs at elders@dal.ca or 902-494-6803 (leave a message).
