Course Overview

The objective of this course is to introduce students to one of the most ambitious and influential, but also complex and controversial political experiments in regional integration, namely the European Union (EU). The course explores the EU’s history, its main institutional structures and how it functions. It also overviews the main theories formulated in the disciplines of comparative politics and international relations to study this political project. These theories will be applied to weigh into key debates about the EU. Does the European Union represent a new and progressive example of regional integration that is moving European politics beyond the nation-state? Is the EU the most effective institutional response to the economic and political challenges of today’s world? Should the EU be only an economic bloc, or also political one? Can the Union and its member states have a single and powerful voice on the international arena? Can the EU be democratically accountable? And should it continue to expand its membership, even beyond Europe?

The course is divided in three sections. The first section examines the key principles and objectives of the EU project, overviews the history of European integration since 1945 and presents the most important theories of European integration.

In the second section, students will become familiar with the basic institutional structure of the EU and its decision-making processes. The focus will be on the Union’s main institutions (European Commission, Council of the European Union, European Parliament and European Court of Justice), their role and functions, and how they have changed over time.
The third section looks at the most relevant policy-areas in which the EU is involved: economic policy (the Single Market, the Euro), foreign affairs (the Common Foreign and Security Policy), the Common Agriculture Policy (CAP), Justice and Home Affairs, and enlargement.

In concluding, we will consider some of the future directions and challenges facing the Union in years ahead.

Course Format
The course will be based on a combination of lectures and seminar discussions. Lectures will follow the readings, but they will not overlap completely. Since the course will have no tutorials, lectures will presuppose familiarity with the readings. It is essential for students to complete the reading assignments before the lecture, in order to fully benefit from class discussions.

Course Textbook
The book is available at the University Bookstore. You can also find copies of this book on Amazon.

E-readings
In addition to the textbook indicated above, the weekly course readings include a number of journal articles and primary documents (e.g. European Commission’s papers). Both types of readings are available online. Journal articles can be accessed, free of charge, to Dalhousie University students through the Library. In order to access them, you need to go to http://www.library.dal.ca and then search for the relevant article.

Resources on the European Union
Dalhousie University hosts a European Union Center of Excellence (EUCE; http://euce.dal.ca/). The Center brings in guest speakers as well as hosting symposia and lectures from Dalhousie faculty. Details of each talk will be announced in class or through the course website. The Centre also offers financial support for student exchanges, internships and study tours in Europe. Please contact the centre coordinator for more information (euce@dal.ca).
The Dalhousie libraries and other local university libraries have reasonably good collections on European and EU topics. Relevant documents and information about the European Union are available on the EU’s official website (www.europa.eu) and the websites of the EU main institutions, such as the Commission’s (www.ec.europa.eu), the Council (www.consilium.europa.eu/docCenter.asp?lang=en&cmsid=245). News and articles about the EU can be found in publications such as the EU Bulletin (available in the government documents area of the Killam library), Agence Europe (accessible through Factiva), European Voice, EU Observer. Archival material, including photos and videos, on the history of the EU can be found on the European Navigator website (http://www.ena.lu/). Academic journals specifically dealing with the EU, its policies and politics include the Journal of Common Market Studies, European Union Politics, the Journal of European Integration, European Union Foreign Policy Review. A number of think tanks produce analyses and commentaries on the EU. For a list, see www.eu.thinktankdirectory.org/ More resources will be posted on the course website throughout the term.

Course on Brightspace
Lecture slides, syllabus, assignment instructions, bibliographic references and other relevant material for this course will be available on Brightspace. Brightspace will also function as main means of communication between the instructor and students. You will also be able to see your grades, read announcements and contribute to the discussion board. The course on Brightspace can be accessed at https://dal.brightspace.com/d2l/home

Email Policy
Please feel free to contact me by email if you have any questions related to the course. I will reply to legitimate email inquiries within 2 days. If you do not receive a reply within this period, please resubmit your question(s).

Course Evaluation
The final grade for this course will be based on four components:

Format of assignments

1) Mid-term Test: The mid-term test will cover material from the lectures and readings discussed in class up until the date of the test. The test will be written in-class on October 3. It is worth 20% of the final grade.

2) Essay: The major writing assignment for this course is a paper of approximately 2,500 words, or 8 pages in length based on one of the topics examined in Part II and III of the course. If you choose a topic that is not covered in these sections, you must first gain the approval of the course instructor. More information on this assignment will be given out in class. It is worth 35% of the final grade. The paper is due November 28.

Best essay on the EU prize

The EU Centre of Excellence at Dalhousie sponsors an annual competition for the best essay on the EU (100$ prize). The competition is open to all students at Dalhousie. The instructor for POLI3321 will select the best essay(s) from the class to be considered for the prize.

3) Final Exam. The final exam will be cumulative and draw from all of the course readings and lectures. The final exam will be scheduled during the examination period. It is worth 35% of the final grade.

4) Class participation

The grade for class participation is based on class attendance, active and informed involvement in class discussions, and contributions to the online discussion board (at least two).

Overall participation is worth 10% of the final grade.

Late penalty
Late papers will be penalized 2 per cent per day (including weekends but excluding religious holidays). Extensions will be granted only for documented reasons of illness, or bereavement. The length of the extension will be based on the information in the documentation. In case of illness, students must ask the physician to indicate explicitly the length of time during which they were unable to attend to their coursework obligations.

Use of sources and referencing style
Both written assignments must be properly sourced, and should include both a bibliography and citation within the text. Research papers must be based on academic sources, that is, articles published in peer-reviewed journals, as well as books. The recommended referencing style is APA (details about this style can be found at http://www.library.dal.ca/Files/How_do_I/pdf/apa_style6.pdf).

UNIVERSITY POLICIES, STATEMENTS, GUIDELINES and RESOURCES for SUPPORT
This course is governed by the academic rules and regulations set forth in the University Calendar and the Senate.
University Statements

Academic Integrity
At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect (The Center for Academic Integrity, Duke University, 1999). As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity. Click here to read more.

Accessibility
The Advising and Access Services Centre is Dalhousie’s centre of expertise for student accessibility and accommodation. The advising team works with students who request accommodation as a result of: a disability, religious obligation, or any barrier related to any other characteristic protected under Human Rights legislation (NS, NB, PEI, NFLD). Click here to read more.

Student Code of Conduct
Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don’t follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution can’t be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution. Click here to read more.

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect
Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness (Strategic Priority 5.2). Recognition of Mi’kmaq Territory
Dalhousie University would like to acknowledge that the University is on Traditional Mi’kmaq Territory. The Elders in Residence program provides students with access to First Nations elders for guidance, counsel and support. Visit the office in the McCain Building (room 3037) or contact the programs at elders@dal.ca or 902-494-6803 (leave a message).
