Course Description

In this course, students will take part in a critical analysis of the issues and debates involved in the development and enforcement of international human rights. The course will commence with an examination of the international treaty bodies, courts, and tribunals that have convened to address mass atrocity crimes and other human rights violations. Establishing this foundation will enable students to begin to conceptualize the ways in which legal decisions were made at the international level, as well as how these decisions were received and interpreted in a diverse range of domestic settings. This will bring attention to disputes associated with commitments made by intergovernmental organizations, state sovereignty, accountability, and restrictions. The course will then shift to contemporary legal debates surrounding human rights. These discussions will address the obligations of intergovernmental organizations and their member states, issues of equality, the role of NGOs, self-determination, freedom of expression, torture, human trafficking, Indigenous rights, the environment, as well as how to enforce international laws at the domestic level.

The overarching goal of this course will be to have students produce publishable research papers by the conclusion of the semester. They will reach this objective through consultations with the instructor, the submission of a research essay proposal, an annotated bibliography, and a seminar presentation.

POLI 4505 will consist of one seminar per week. It is expected that students will have their weekly readings completed prior to the beginning of each seminar. This will enable students to be active members of our safe and productive community of inquiry. Students are allowed to use laptops during seminars; however, the use of recording devices, messaging platforms, and social media websites is not permitted.

Additional course information, weekly readings, PowerPoint slides, assignment outlines, and announcement will appear on Brightspace. I encourage students to familiarize themselves with the course’s online learning management system before the start of the semester.

Course Outcomes

By the conclusion of the course, students will be able to:

- Identify the international bodies and documents that influence human rights law.
- Address how international human rights law has been applied in domestic settings.
- Critically examine challenges that practitioners are currently facing.
- Conduct scholarly research and present evidence in a coherent manner.
- Apply research, critical thinking, writing, and organizational skills to new tasks.
Textbook and Readings

Non-textbook readings will be available on Brightspace, via hyperlink, or at the Killam Memorial Library.

* Please note that readings are subject to change. If a change is made, details will be posted on Brightspace.

Paper copies of assignments must be submitted to the instructor or to the Political Science office between 9:00am and 4:00pm (Monday to Friday). Neither the professor nor the Department of Political Science can assume responsibility for assignments submitted by e-mail.

Unless instructed otherwise, assignments must be double-spaced, presented in 12-point font, and include both the student’s name and the course code (POLI 4505).

Research Essay Proposal

On September 30, 2019, students will submit a 3-page research essay proposal on a topic of their choosing, which relates to the themes addressed in the course. The research essay proposal should include the student’s theoretical and methodological approaches to their research topic, a sample of the sources that the student plans to use, and any research problems that the student expects they may encounter during their research. If approved by the instructor, the topic for the research essay proposal will serve as the foundation for the student’s annotated bibliography, seminar presentation, and research essay.

Annotated Bibliography

Students will submit an annotated bibliography on October 21, 2019. In connection with the topic addressed in the research essay proposal and in preparation for the seminar presentation and research essay, students will conduct research on five academic sources that relate to the topic, cite sources using The Chicago Manual of Style, provide a 200-word evaluation of each source, and inform the instructor how the source will influence their research essay.

Seminar Presentation

From Week 10 to Week 14 (excluding Week 11), each student will be given 10 minutes to present their proposed research to the class. Following the presentation, the members of the seminar will discuss each student’s research and provide constructive feedback. A presentation schedule will be organized during the first month of the course.

Participation
Active seminar participation will create a more productive community of inquiry for everyone in the course. Engaging in classroom discussions will also allow students to gain a greater understanding of the course material and will assist their fellow students with their independent research projects. Students will be graded on the quality of their contributions and should feel free to ask the instructor for updates at any point throughout the semester.

Research Essay
Students will be asked to write a 15-page research essay and to submit it on December 9, 2019 (one week after our last class). The essay is designed to provide students with an opportunity to research and examine a topic that relates to the course. Feedback from the research essay proposal, annotated bibliography, and seminar presentation should be evident in the final product. The essay must follow appropriate scholarly conventions and The Chicago Manual of Style citation guide. The essay should also incorporate all five sources from the annotated bibliography, as well as an additional ten sources.

Late Penalties and Absences

If a student fails to submit the research essay proposal or the annotated bibliography on the appropriate due date, 5% will be immediately deducted from the overall grade of the assignment. For every day that the assignment is late, after that initial day, the student will be penalized an additional 2% per day. In regards to the seminar presentation and research essay, a student will receive a grade of 0% if they fail to attend their own presentation or submit the research essay on December 9, 2019.

As of the 2017/2018 academic year: Dalhousie students are asked to take responsibility for their own short-term absences (3 days or less) by contacting their instructor by phone or e-mail prior to the academic requirement deadline or scheduled time and by submitting a completed Student Declaration of Absence to their instructor in case of missed or late academic requirements. Only 2 separate Student Declaration of Absence forms may be submitted per course during a term.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. A finding of plagiarism may result in a failing grade of an assignment or course or, if very serious, suspension or expulsion from the university. In fact, if plagiarism is discovered after a student has completed his or her studies, and the penalty results in that student no longer meeting the requirements of a degree that has been awarded, the university may rescind that degree.

Some examples of plagiarism:

- Failure to attribute authorship when using sources such as written or oral work, computer codes/programs, artistic or architectural works, scientific projects, performances, web page designs, graphical representations, diagrams, videos, and images.
- Downloading all or part of the work of another from the Internet and submitting as one's own.
- The use of a paper prepared by any person other than the individual claiming to be the author.

Plagiarism is committed when you do not acknowledge using someone else's:

- words or phrases
- ideas or thoughts
- term paper
• recording
• images
• computer code
• experiment results
• lecture content
• falsified data, citations or other text
• OR your own previously submitted work

Plagiarized materials can come from:
• books
• journal articles
• CD's
• encyclopedias
• web pages
• online term papers
• email or listservs
• talks or lecture

Academic Integrity

At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect (The Center for Academic Integrity, Duke University, 1999). As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity.

Accessibility

The Advising and Access Services Centre is Dalhousie's centre of expertise for student accessibility and accommodation. The advising team works with students who request accommodation as a result of: a disability, religious obligation, or any barrier related to any other characteristic protected under Human Rights legislation (NS, NB, PEI, NFLD).

Student Code of Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don’t follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution cannot be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution.
Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. We stand for equality. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity. We are a respectful and inclusive community. We are committed to being a place where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our Strategic Direction prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness (Strategic Priority 5.2).

Classroom Etiquette

I intend to create a safe and productive learning environment for every student enrolled in POLI 4505. In exchange, I ask that all students respect the views and opinions of their fellow classmates.

Additionally, I am asking that all students avoid the needless use of messaging and social media platforms on their phones, laptops, and tablets during lectures. Using these platforms can be distracting to both the instructor and fellow students.

E-mail Policy and Important Announcements

When communicating with the instructor via e-mail, please include POLI 4505 in the subject line, as well as proper greetings and salutations (using your full name). I will do my best to respond within 24 hours.

Please be sure to regularly check the “News” section on Brightspace for important announcements regarding the course and other relevant events going on in the Department of Political Science, Dalhousie University, or the surrounding community. If you have an event that you would like posted on Brightspace, please feel free to contact the instructor.

Recognition of Mi’kmaq Territory

Dalhousie University would like to acknowledge that the University is on Traditional Mi’kmaq Territory. The Elders in Residence program provides students with access to First Nations elders for guidance, counsel and support. Visit the office in the McCain Building (room 3037) or contact the programs at elders@dal.ca or 902-494-6803 (leave a message).
