

Women in Politics Scholarship

Department of Political Science
Dalhousie University

The Department of Political Science at Dalhousie University is pleased to invite applications to the Women* in Politics Scholarship.

The Women* in Politics Scholarship was established in September 2020 through the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences by Sarah Dobson, a Dalhousie Political Science and Law graduate and Grace Evans, then a current Political Science student. The Women* in Politics Scholarship supports the next generation of women-identifying students in the field by encouraging and inspiring their career aspirations.

Funds for this award have been generously provided by the family, friends, and supporters of Ms. Dobson and Ms. Evans and of Dalhousie University. Two scholarships of $1,000 will be awarded annually, for the duration of available funding. Scholarships will be awarded in the spring/summer term beginning in the 2020/2021 Academic Year. Preference will be given to Nova Scotian applicants who have voluntarily self-identified as belonging to an under-represented designated group as defined by the University.

To be eligible for this award, recipient(s) must:

- Identify as a woman¹
- Demonstrate academic capability.
- Demonstrate a commitment to feminist and gender issues.
- Submit a 250-word biographical statement and resumé.

Applicants can either self-nominate or be nominated by a Department of Political Science faculty member.

The recipient(s) will be encouraged to meet with the scholarship organizers and promote the scholarship.

Applications must be submitted to psadmin@dal.ca by May 1st of each year.

December 2020
