

RACE, EMPIRE AND PLACE: RADICAL PRAXIS IN LIBRARIES & ARCHIVES

An Open Classroom Event

TUESDAY.
SEPTEMBER 3RD

1:00 to 2:25pm
Doors Open @ 12:45

LOCATION: KENNETH C.
ROWE MANAGEMENT
BUILDING, ROOM 3001

Join us for an Open Classroom featuring MI Students Kristan Belanger, Rowan Moore, Kelsey Morgan, and Carolyn Smith reflecting on their experiences in a reading course on antiracism and decolonization, and how they are applying the content to Library and Archival work. Moderated by Dr. Jamila J. Ghaddar, this event is an opportunity to learn about how your peers are working on challenging topics and tackling social justice issues within the Department of Information.

This Open Classroom is taking place as part of the course, INFO6820 Antiracism and Diversity in the Information Professions. It is endorsed by the Information Science Student Association (ISSA).

Please contact Dr. Jamila Ghaddar for accessibility or other questions.

jghaddar@dal.ca

KRISTAN BELANGER

Kristan Belanger is a proud member of Glooscap First Nation. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science as well as a Juris Doctor from Dalhousie University. She currently works as a research assistant at the Lnuwey Tplutaqan Wikuom (Mi'kmaq Law Lodge), and is pursuing a Master of Information.

KELSEY MORGAN

Kelsey Morgan is a dedicated researcher and current Master of Information student at Dalhousie University. Having completed the International Baccalaureate program in Qatar, she pursued a bachelor's degree in English and History from the Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Kelsey then earned a Master of Arts in English from Dalhousie University.

CAROLYN SMITH

Carolyn Smith is a graduate student at Dalhousie University completing her Master of Information, Archives Certificate and thesis research. In 2022 she completed her Bachelor of Arts at Vancouver Island University with a major in History and minor in English.

ROWAN MOORE

Rowan Moore is a graduate student in the Master of Information program at Dalhousie University. They completed their Bachelor of Arts in History from uOttawa before starting in this program to learn more about archives, libraries, and community based information practices.

