

PRIMARY HEALTH CARE RESEARCH DAY 2018

Theme: Patient Engagement in Primary Health Care Research

June 4th, 2018

Double Tree by Hilton, Dartmouth, Nova Scotia

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS (detailed bios here)

Maret Felzien, works as an associate Professor of Reading and a Coordinator at the Northeastern Junior College and assists with the Felzien Family dry-land farm and cattle ranch. She is involved in Community Based Participatory Research, and is the first North American patient representative for the North American Primary Care Research Group (NAPCRG) Board.

Dr. Jack Westfall, is a family physician in search of rural goodness, with the firm belief that access to healthcare is a right. With the support of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, he started the High Plains Research Network, which works to address the health issues important to communities.

Also make sure to check out our wonderful Keynotes and team at the Picchione Lecture Series (click for info) at the Halifax Central Library on June 5th.

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS OPEN (click here) - DEADLINE APRIL 11

Patients, community members, students, faculty, researchers, and the primary health care community are invited to share their finished, ongoing, and upcoming research.

REMOTE ATTENDANCE

A limited program will be available for those interested to attending remotely. Contact us for more information.

CONTACT

dmfresearch@dal.ca

STAY TUNED FOR REGISTRATION INFORMATION!!

DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY