Palliative trajectories are extremely vulnerable – especially when it comes to co-operation across sector borders. But how does it look from patients’, relatives’ and professionals’ perspectives?

In Denmark, GPs play an important role in these trajectories, but what do we know about their effort and attitudes?

How do we go ahead from here?

About the speaker:

Mette Asbjørn Neergaard is educated as a Danish specialist in general medicine (GP), completed a PhD in Palliative Care in 2009 and the Nordic specialist course in palliative medicine in 2011.

Since 2009, she has been working as a consultant in palliative medicine for The Palliative Care Team and the Children’s Palliative Care Team at Aarhus University Hospital. She has clinical duties for in- and out patients as well as hospice patients, and has a special responsibility for development and research.

She has published more than 30 peer-reviewed papers on palliative care issues and, among other things, edited and co-authored the first Danish palliative care textbook.
