Course Description

The course examines the political and economic importance of consumption and critical perspectives on the ecological, social, and wellbeing impacts of consumer society. Topics include the emergence of consumer society, the central role of expanded consumption in the post-war Fordist compromise and “golden age” of capitalism, the struggles of marginalized groups to participate in consumer society, and growing inequalities of consumption in the neoliberal era. The course also considers the ways in which consumption choices have become vehicles for politics through political and ethical consumerism. To understand the drivers and significance of consumption, we examine major economic and sociological theories of consumption, along with related critiques of consumer society. The course includes numerous opportunities for comparative analysis of consumption politics in other times and places in the recent past (the Great Depression, the Second World War, Nazi Germany, and communist societies).

The environmental impacts of consumer society are a prominent theme in the course, along with competing perspectives on how to achieve “sustainable consumption.” The course examines initiatives that aim to provide alternative (i.e. more ecologically sound, socially equitable, and satisfying) ways of meeting material needs, including variations of the “sharing economy.” We will also consider the socio-economic forces that, according to some observers, are eroding the foundations of consumer society as we know it and may point to a post-consumerist future.

Learning Outcomes

- Students will demonstrate understanding of the central role that consumption has played in political, economic, and social life since the emergence of consumer society.
- Students will demonstrate understanding of major theories of consumption and critiques of consumer society.
- Students will be able to critically assess competing perspectives on sustainable consumption and initiatives to create alternative systems of provision.
- Students will further develop their communication skills (public speaking, writing, listening critically) through presentations, class discussions, and written assignments.
- Students will further develop their skills in research, analysis, and synthesis of information through their presentations and research papers.
Course Format
The course combines lectures and class discussion, along with student presentations, guest speakers, and the occasional use of video clips.

For information on how your percentage grade will be converted into a letter grade and grade point (maximum 4.30), see Dalhousie’s grade scale and definitions: https://www.dal.ca/campus_life/academic-support/grades-and-student-records/grade-scale-and-definitions.html

Participation 10%

You are expected to attend every class and complete the assigned readings before class. You are also expected to participate actively and respectfully in group discussions—without dominating discussion in a way that prevents others from speaking.

The participation grade will be based on the quality of your participation in class discussions. See criteria in table below.

| 1 | Present, not disruptive.
Tries to respond when called on but does not offer much.
Demonstrates very infrequent involvement in discussion. |
| 2 | Demonstrates adequate preparation: knows basic case or reading facts, but does not show evidence of trying to interpret or analyze them.
Offers straightforward information (e.g., straight from the case or reading), without elaboration or very infrequently (perhaps once a class).
Does not offer to contribute to discussion, but contributes to a moderate degree when called on.
Demonstrates sporadic involvement. |
| 3 | Demonstrates good preparation: knows case or reading facts well, has thought through implications of them.
Offers interpretations and analysis of case material (more than just facts) to class. |
Contributes well to discussion in an ongoing way: responds to other students' points, thinks through own points, questions others in a constructive way, offers and supports suggestions that may be counter to the majority opinion. Demonstrates consistent ongoing involvement.

| 4 | Demonstrates excellent preparation: has analyzed case exceptionally well, relating it to readings and other material (e.g., readings, course material, discussions, experiences, etc.). Offers analysis, synthesis, and evaluation of case material, e.g., puts together pieces of the discussion to develop new approaches that take the class further. Contributes in a very significant way to ongoing discussion: keeps analysis focused, responds very thoughtfully to other students' comments, contributes to the cooperative argument-building, suggests alternative ways of approaching material and helps class analyze which approaches are appropriate, etc. Demonstrates ongoing very active involvement. |

Weekly Reading Reflections / “QIPs” 20%

Starting in week 2, before the beginning of class on Tuesday, you will submit a reflection on the week’s readings. (In week 2 only, you will also be able to submit a reflection on the previous week’s readings, if you wish). Each reflection will be 400-500 words in length. Please submit the reflections on brightspace; do not email them to me.

One possible model to follow is to identify at least one Question (Q), Interesting or Important Point (I), and Problem (P) that you identified in the readings (or had with them)—hence the acronym QIP. However, if you find that model too constraining, you are not required to follow it, as long as you show that you have done the reading and reflected on it.

Some questions to consider as you write the reflection: What common themes are evident in the readings? What key differences are evident in the accounts found in the different readings? You can also include reflections on your own experiences with consumption and spending in addition to, but not instead of, reflection on the readings.

The main goal of the reading reflections is to encourage you to think about the readings before coming to class and to be ready to discuss them. They also give the instructor an opportunity to identify any common questions or problems, which will then be discussed in class.

You will receive one point for each reflection that you submit, up to a maximum of 10, over the semester. You will also receive an additional qualitative grade out of 10 on your reflections throughout the semester. The qualitative grade will be based on three main grading categories: excellent (0.8 points), satisfactory (0.6 points), and less than satisfactory (0.3 to 0.5 points). Therefore if you submit a satisfactory reflection, you will receive $1 + 0.6 = 1.6$ points, equivalent to an A-minus grade. An excellent reflection will earn $1.8$ points, equivalent to an A-plus, while a less than satisfactory reflection could earn as little as $1.3$ points, equivalent to a C. (In rare cases of particularly poor work, I reserve the right to give a lower grade or no grade at all.)

As you will see, the majority of the points are given for showing that you are doing the reading, understanding key themes, and reflecting thoughtfully upon them. If you do that for ten week’s readings, you will get a grade in the A-minus range on this component of the course. The grading is generous if you submit all ten; it is less so if you do not. Higher grades may be assigned to reflections that show strong insights, particularly thoughtful commentary on key themes that cut across the readings for the week—rather than focusing on secondary details or looking at the readings in isolation—or an ability to make relevant links to wider issues in the politics of consumption beyond those specifically addressed in the readings. Lower grades may be assigned to reflections that do not illustrate an adequate effort in having completed the readings or in identifying and commenting upon relevant themes.

Midterm 25%

An in-class midterm will take place on October 10. It will include a mix of short questions to assess your understanding of key concepts and essay questions.

Presentation 15%

Each student will deliver a ten-minute presentation in class on a specific issue of their choice related to the politics of consumption. Some suggested presentation and paper topics will also be provided. Presentations will be ten minutes in length and will be followed by five minutes questions and comments from the class. Note that the time limit will be strictly enforced since we have limited class time. Be sure to practice your presentation ahead of time to make sure you stay within the time limit. Students are encouraged to use their presentation as an opportunity to develop ideas for their research papers.

Research Paper 30%

You will write a paper of 3,000 to 4,000 words. Papers are due on the last day of class, November 28.

It is recommended that your paper build on the topic of your presentation—see description above. A list of possible presentation / paper topics will be distributed in class. You are also free to propose your own topic, subject to approval of the instructor. It is also recommended that you begin work on your paper early in the semester and avoid a last-minute rush.

You have the option of submitting a 1-2 page proposal, plus an initial bibliography, by October 24. You will not receive a grade for the proposal, but this is an opportunity to receive feedback as you develop your paper.

Note that plagiarism detection software may be used to review research papers. For more information on how to avoid problems related to plagiarism, see section on “Academic Integrity” in Section B, below.

Academic Integrity

At Dalhousie University, we are guided in all of our work by the values of academic integrity: honesty, trust, fairness, responsibility and respect. As a student, you are required to demonstrate these values in all of the work you do. The University provides policies and procedures that every member of the university community is required to follow to ensure academic integrity.

What does academic integrity mean?

At university we advance knowledge by building on the work of other people. Academic integrity means that we are honest and accurate in creating and communicating all academic products. Acknowledgement of other people’s work must be done in a way that does not leave the reader in any doubt as to whose work it is. Academic integrity means trustworthy conduct such as not cheating on examinations and not misrepresenting information. It is the student’s responsibility to seek assistance to ensure that these standards are met.

How can you achieve academic integrity?

We must all work together to prevent academic dishonesty because it is unfair to honest students. The following are some ways that you can achieve academic integrity; some may not be applicable in all circumstances.

• Make sure you understand Dalhousie’s policies on academic integrity (http://academicintegrity.dal.ca/Policies/)
• Do not cheat in examinations or write an exam or test for someone else
• Do not falsify data or lab results
• Be sure not to plagiarize, intentionally or unintentionally
• Clearly indicate the sources used in your written or oral work. This includes computer codes/ programs, artistic or architectural works, scientific projects, performances, web page designs, graphical representations, diagrams, videos, and images
• Do not use the work of another from the Internet or any other source and submit it as your own
• When you use the ideas of other people (paraphrasing), make sure to acknowledge the source
• Do not submit work that has been completed through collaboration or previously submitted for

What will happen if an allegation of an academic offence is made against you?

As your instructor, I am required to report every suspected offence. The full process is outlined in the Faculty Discipline Flow Chart (https://cdn.dal.ca/content/dam/dalhousie/pdf/dept/university_secretariat/FDPflowchartSEpt2016.pdf) and includes the following:

• Each Faculty has an Academic Integrity Officer (AIO) who receives allegations from instructors
• Based on the evidence provided, the AIO decides if there is evidence to proceed with the allegation and you will be notified of the process
• If the case proceeds, you will receive a PENDING grade until the matter is resolved
• If you are found guilty of an offence, a penalty will be assigned ranging from a warning, to failure of the assignment or failure of the class, to expulsion from the University. Penalties may also include a notation on your transcript that indicates that you have committed an academic offence.

If you have any questions about academic integrity and plagiarism, please ask.

Accessibility

The Student Accessibility Centre is Dalhousie's centre of expertise for student accessibility and accommodation. The advising team works with students on the Halifax campus who request accommodation as a result of: a disability, religious obligation, or any barrier related to any other characteristic protected under Human Rights legislation (NS, NB, PEI, NL).

If there are aspects of the design, instruction, and/or experiences within this course that result in barriers to your inclusion please contact the Study Accessibility Centre:
Please note that your classroom may contain accessible furniture and equipment. It is important that these items remain in the classroom, undisturbed, so that students who require their use will be able to fully participate.

Student Code of Conduct

Everyone at Dalhousie is expected to treat others with dignity and respect. The Code of Student Conduct allows Dalhousie to take disciplinary action if students don’t follow this community expectation. When appropriate, violations of the code can be resolved in a reasonable and informal manner—perhaps through a restorative justice process. If an informal resolution can’t be reached, or would be inappropriate, procedures exist for formal dispute resolution. (read more: https://www.dal.ca/dept/university_secretariat/policies/student-life/code-of-student-conduct.html)

Diversity and Inclusion – Culture of Respect

Every person at Dalhousie has a right to be respected and safe. We believe inclusiveness is fundamental to education. Dalhousie is strengthened in our diversity and dedicated to achieving equity. We are committed to being a respectful and inclusive community where everyone feels welcome and supported, which is why our university prioritizes fostering a culture of diversity and inclusiveness.
