Ed's Story

The Dragon Chronicles

Directed by Simon Bloom
Written by Mary-Colin Chisholm
Produced by Dr. Gerri Frager

16 year old Ed is a trickster, a skater, a gamer, a brother, son and friend. He's the kid who moons the whole school on a dare and the guy who always sticks up for the underdog. Ed is a sensitive young man with an aggressive cancer.

From Ed's Journal entries, kept in his last 4 months of life and 25 interviews with his circle of family, friends and healthcare team, a "verbatim" portrait is drawn of a boy on the verge of adulthood fighting not only a medical battle, but a battle to experience his life on his terms.

Ed's Story: The Dragon Chronicles

Ed is a trickster, a skater, a gamer, a brother, son and friend. He's the kid who moons the whole school on a dare and the guy who always sticks up for the underdog. Ed is a sensitive young man battling his own dragon, an aggressive cancer. Constructed from Ed's Journal entries, and 25 follow-up interviews with his circle of family, friends and healthcare team, a "verbatim" portrait is drawn of a boy on the verge of adulthood fighting not only a medical battle, but a battle to experience his life on his terms.

A Fringe Festival Hit at its 20th Atlantic Fringe Festival debut, Ed's Story: The Dragon Chronicles takes us from true life in healthcare to an innovative research project, now able to be shared with others.

From Kate Watson's review in The Coast: "This is the kind of theatre one dreams of seeing at the Fringe: moving, memorable and beautifully written, directed, and produced."
