Immigration Politics; European and Canadian Debates
September 18, 2015

Hosted by European Union Centre of Excellence and the Department of Sociology & Social Anthropology, Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences, Dalhousie University

9:00 – 9:15 Welcome & Introductions

Dr. Jure Gantar, Acting Dean, Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences

Dr. Pauline Gardiner Barber, Chair, Department of Sociology & Social Anthropology

Session I: 9:15 – 10:30 – Chair, Ulises Villafuerte, Dalhousie University

Dr. Parvati Raghuram: The Open University, “Composing labour migration: distributed politics”

Dr. Ruben Zaoitti: Dalhousie University, “Europe and the latest “migration crisis”: More of the same?”

Discussion

10:30-10:45 Break

Session II: 10:45 – 12:45 – Chair, Serperi Sevgur, Dalhousie University

Dr. Evangelia Tastsoglou, St. Mary’s University, “Engendering international human rights protection: Women asylum seekers on the southern borders of the European Union”

Dr. Winnie Lem, Trent University, “Reflections on migration and the political economy of temporality”

Dr. Martin Geiger, Carleton University, “IOM and Canada: Congruence, ambivalence and conflict in globalized migration politics”

Discussion

Lunch 12:45-1:30
Session III: 1:30 - 2:45 – Chair, Shiva Nourpanah, Dalhousie University

Dr. Delphine Nakache, University of Ottawa, "Temporary or Transitional? Migrant Worker Experience with Pathways to Permanent Residence in Canada"

Catherine Bryan, Dalhousie University, “Labour and Population: Labour Recruitment through Manitoba’s Nominee Program”

Discussion

Break

Session IV: 3:00-4:30 – Chair, Katie Harris, Dalhousie University

Sinziana Chira, Dalhousie University, “Retracing their steps: Contextualizing international students’ challenging routes to transnational belonging and Canadian citizenship”

Dr. Yoko Yoshida, Dalhousie University, “Immigrants’ integration: Is economic integration everything?”

Discussion